

An Invitation to shape the future

BSGI

The British Society For Gynaecological Imaging

Dear Colleague

We would be delighted to invite you to be part of a new and exciting development in gynaecological imaging. We invite you to become a founding member of the British Society for Gynaecological imaging.

Imaging in gynaecology is integral to modern practice and has shaped service delivery in many specialist areas of gynaecology. This has resulted in vastly improved patient care. Many of the specialist areas in gynaecology have societies of likeminded individuals to represent their interests, such as the BFS, BMS, BSGE, and the association of early pregnancy units. Until now, there has not been a corresponding British Society to support the specialist area of imaging in gynaecology.

“Improving Women’s Health through Imaging”

What are the aims of the society?

1. To encourage the study and application of all formats of imaging (ultrasound, magnetic resonance, X-ray, CT and other) in gynaecology, to specifically promote the wellbeing of women.
2. To promote and support the professional standards, values and clinical care provided to women.
3. To publish and disseminate knowledge emanating from the Society’s activities.
4. To open its membership to all individuals working in the field of gynaecological imaging.
5. To support and encourage a network of likeminded professionals to share their experiences in gynaecological imaging and to enhance the standards of patient care.
6. To promote educational and training/teaching through the organisation of regular meetings, conferences and workshops
7. To promote interaction of its membership with similar societies overseas through provision of educational bursaries and travel funds.
8. To educate members of the public and raise their awareness in the above fields.
9. To collaborate with international organisations or other appropriate societies related to the use of imaging as the Society deems necessary.

The Society welcomes trainers and trainees in gynaecology imaging

The BSGI is looking for enthusiastic people to shape the future of gynaecological imaging in the United Kingdom.

What are the Society’s activities and benefits?

1. The Society will initiate a continued professional development programme for its members as soon as possible. It is anticipated that this will be through annual scientific meetings and web-based material in the members section.
2. The Society will also organise preceptors’ workshops to assist and support the trainers in understanding their trainees needs and thus deliver optimal quality of training, which ultimately results in improved standards of patient care.
3. For the trainee there will be a strong educational programme with national meetings and expert guidance available.
4. For the trainee the Society will focus upon improving practical skills in imaging through organisation of high quality workshops, hence better patient care.
5. It is anticipated that the Society’s website will have a members’ area with access to an image and case-history library to promote case-based discussion and share good clinical practice.
6. The Society will offer educational training bursaries for members and non-members
7. The Society will provide a platform for like-minded individuals with an interest in promoting the science and application of gynaecological imaging, to network and exchange knowledge, skills and ideas ultimately benefiting women’s health.

An application form is attached and we expectantly look forward to seeing you in a future meeting. With best wishes
